POLL: LIVE seminar about Web development ?

By Dr. Holger Flick

In recent weeks, I have gotten inquiries about a live seminar to build a full stack project with Delphi. With regard to scope, something like my latest video series with the ability for you to interact and ask questions. The seminar would either be during the week or on a Saturday.

Possible Topics?

Here's just a few suggestions as an overarching topic for the whole seminar. They would last from 3-6 hours.

- HTML, CSS and Bootstrap for Delphi developers
- Building the architecture of a Web application with responsive navigation bar
- Web page with user login and dedicated areas (front plus backend implementation)
- Getting started with MQTT
- Your idea! Use comment section in poll...

Are you interested?

Let me know if and when you would like to participate. Also, if you would only participate for free. The likelihood of an event happening is lower then because I would need to look for a sponsor.

Free to read. Not free to make.

Every tutorial, article, and line of example code on Holger's Code is published without a paywall and without ads. This page is about what keeps it that way.

Professional work, published free

The content here is held to the same standard as professional client work: every tutorial is built as a real project, tested against current versions, documented step by step, and revisited when the frameworks move on. A single in-depth tutorial routinely takes days — and that's before the bills behind it: servers, storage, build infrastructure, licenses, and the hardware everything is verified on.

If an article or tutorial here has saved you an afternoon of debugging, taught you a technique, or helped you ship, it created real value for you. Supporting it isn't charity — it's paying for professional work you found useful, at whatever price you choose. And if you can't, keep reading anyway. That's what the free part means.
